

Yuzu Asian Cuisine opens near Lancaster Amtrak station

Posted: Monday, September 15, 2014 4:30 pm | Updated: 9:55 am, Tues Sept 16, 1014

By CHAD UMBLE

Staff Writer

Chad Umble/Staff

Yuzu Asian Cuisine opened Monday in Station Square, near the Lancaster Amtrak station.

Yuzu Asian Cuisine opened Monday at 12 E. McGovern Ave., taking a space near the Lancaster Amtrak station in the Station Square shopping center.

The restaurant, which has seating for about 50, is in a spot formerly occupied by Niko's Pizza & Grill, which has closed.

Yuzu Asian Cuisine features a wide variety of sushi rolls and entrees as well as noodle, fried rice and Thai dishes. There are also soups and salads. The restaurant offers dine-in and take-out.

Yuzu Asian Cuisine is owned by Jessica Zheng and Harry Chen who have worked in a variety of Japanese restaurants in Manhattan and on Long Island. They have about 10 employees.

source: LancasterOnline.com