

PennDOT punts on train station presentation

Nick Winkler, Downingtown Does | 03/08/2012

What was expected to be the official announcement from PennDOT on the concept plan for the Downingtown train station did not come to fruition during Wednesday's council meeting. PennDOT official Bob Garrett, addressed council apologizing that he could not offer the official concept plan, but insisted that the plan will be made available with their findings sometime this month; followed by a presentation sometime before June.

Garrett insists there are no major flaws or hold-ups to the plan, rather they were finalizing some details on their end and felt more comfortable waiting until that time. Asked about project priority, Garrett listed the Exton, Coatesville, and then possibly the Downingtown station in that order.

Residents can follow the project by visiting PennDOT's PlanTheKeystone.com website.
